Resolution Plan Temporary
Expedient to Bridge Gap
Till Platforms Made.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

WASHINGTON, D. C. April 5.—The conference between the House and Senate on the resolution declaring peace with Germany, which was held today, was a disappointment to many observers. The House, which had passed the resolution on March 28, found the Senate unwilling to accept it in its present form. The Senate, on the other hand, was not prepared to make the concessions demanded by the House. The result was a deadlock, and the resolution was not passed. The House, however, is determined to pass the resolution, and the Senate is expected to follow suit in the near future. The resolution is a temporary expedient to bridge the gap between the two bodies until their platforms are made. It is a significant step towards peace, and its passage is a matter of great importance.

It is a matter of great importance to the country, and the House is determined to pass it. The Senate, on the other hand, is more cautious. It is not yet ready to accept the resolution, and it is expected to make some changes before it does so. The House, however, is not willing to make any concessions. It is determined to pass the resolution in its present form, and it is expected to do so in the near future. The resolution is a significant step towards peace, and its passage is a matter of great importance.

But while the resolution will be attacked in the House by the Republicans, as well as by the Democrats, it is expected to pass. The House is determined to pass it, and the Senate is expected to follow suit. The resolution is a significant step towards peace, and its passage is a matter of great importance.

Midwest Digs Out of Snow Due To Panhandle Blizzard

Gale to 45 Miles an Hour Sweeps Cattle Country; Temperature Falls to 20 Degrees; Wires are Crippled in Chicago District; Trains Hours Behind in Their Schedules; Snow Drifts High in Many Sections.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 5.—The middle and southwest, hearted by a return to balmy spring weather, today set out to dig themselves out of record breaking blizzards. The "warm blizzard," as official forecasters designated it, developed in the Texas panhandle and yesterday swept rapidly through the central west, today continuing steadily eastward. It snowed ranging from six inches to two feet.

In the open country of the south-west, little was reported to have suffered. There were few official reports of crop damage, however. By noon yesterday, the snow, driven into huge drifts by gales that averaged 30 to 45 miles an hour, had buried railroad tracks, city boulevards and country highways throughout the affected regions. Suburban and telephone communication was cut off in some sections. The blizzard, however, was not as severe as it appeared. The snow, which was dry and light, melted rapidly. The temperature, which had fallen to 20 degrees, began to rise. The wind, which had been howling, died down. The sun, which had been hidden, came out. The blizzard was over. The country was again open. The trains were on their way. The roads were clear. The weather was good. The blizzard was a disappointment, but it was not a disaster.

PARIS, FRANCE, April 5.—(Havas).—

French troops commanded by Gen. Goutte, which are stationed along the Rhine, are prepared to enter German territory today, says the Wiesbaden correspondent of the Matin. It is reported that the French government has decided to occupy the cities on the right bank of the Rhine as a reprisal for the movement of German government troops into the neutral zone fixed by the Versailles treaty. No official announcement has been made of such an order, however.
